KBC Medical Clinic Earns Patient-Centered Medical Home Designation from Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan

Nation’s largest PCMH program transforming primary care in Michigan

Baraga, Mich. (July 24, 2013) – Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan has designated KBC Medical Clinic as a patient-centered medical home practice for 2013. The designation period runs from July 1, 2013, through June 30, 2014.

This means that Dr. Joseph F. Cobb and Dr. Peter Benson are among a select group of primary care physicians in Michigan who are improving health care quality by adopting the PCMH model of care.

“The patient-centered medical home is health care centered on the patient,” said Becky Tussing, RN, Associate Director. “We take a holistic and comprehensive approach to patient care, helping our patients meet their health goals and keeping them healthy with fewer specialist visits, test results, and prescriptions.”

The Blues have designated roughly 1,240 primary care practices — with more than 3,600 primary care doctors — as PCMH practices. The program is the largest of its kind in the country and has the potential to affect close to 2 million Michigan residents.

With the PCMH model, primary care physicians lead care teams who work with patients to keep them healthy and monitor their care on an ongoing basis. PCMH practices track and coordinate patients’ health care, track patients’ conditions and ensure that they receive the care they need. They offer extended access to the care team, coordinate complementary care (such as nutrition counseling), and help patients learn to better manage conditions like asthma and diabetes.

A recent analysis of claims data shows that PCMH-designated doctors are succeeding in more effectively managing patients who have diabetes, keeping them healthy and preventing complications.

The KBC Medical Clinic is a Title V Self Governance Tribal Health Clinic operated by the Keweenaw Bay Indian Community and is located in Baraga. For more information, contact (906) 353-8700 or visit www.ojibwa.com and choose the Health Department link.

In response to community member requests, the KBIC Natural Resources Department (KBNRD) has established a “People’s Garden” near the Walleye rearing ponds and New Day (Brewery Road) in L’Anse. Funding for the garden was provided through the KBIC Natural Resources Committee and the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative. We are currently growing tomatoes, peppers, green beans, squash, peas, corn, potatoes, onions, cucumbers, and zucchini. The purpose of the garden is to provide KBIC community members access to fresh, locally grown produce. Community members are encouraged to come and volunteer at the garden (weeding, watering, harvesting) in exchange for fresh produce. Vegetables will be distributed based on time spent helping in the garden. Please contact Erin Johnston 524-5757 (ext. 24) or Evelyn Ravindran (ext. 11) if you would like to help in the People’s Garden.

In addition to the KBNRD People’s Garden, KBIC Commodity Foods received a grant through the U.S. Department of Agriculture to establish a small raised bed vegetable garden that is handicap accessible. KBNRD staff assisted in the building and planting of the Commodity Foods garden and will participate in a canning workshop at the end of the summer/early fall with help from Michigan State University extension. Commodity Foods participants are encouraged to sign up to help manage the gardens in exchange for fresh produce and/or canned vegetables. Vegetables include tomatoes, peppers, and green beans. If you are a Commodity Food participant, please call Darren Webb at 524-7340 to sign up to help with the garden. There are 20 canning kits available for the first 20 recipients.

There are many foods to be found in area waters, forests, and markets. If we grow our own food and have control over our food supply, we decide on the quality of food we eat. Vegetable gardens and local farmers markets provide a variety of crops without the extra cost of storage, packaging, and transportation. There are many health benefits to using non-processed foods. Learning to harvest encourages self-reliance and traditions that have been here for generations.

SENATOR DEBBIE STABENOW VISITS KBOCC

On August 13, 2013, Senator Debbie Stabenow visited with President Debbie Parrish and other employees from the Keweenaw Bay Indian Community College. The trip included a round table discussion with the Tribal Colleges and President Obama as he had done with other minority serving institutions.

The meeting began with a prayer and ceremony followed by introductions and a tour of the college’s main campus in Baraga.

KBOCC President Debbie Parrish provided a welcome and update on the college’s recent accreditation from the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools as well as the institution’s expansion to the Wabanung Campus in L’Anse. During the discussion on Tribal College initiatives, several issues were addressed including the following: equity in operational funding that is consistent with financial support to Historically Black Colleges and Universities as well as Hispanic Serving Institutions; opposing a move from the Bureau of Indian Education to the Department of Education; and recommendations for revisions to the Higher Education Act, including an amendment creating a new section under Title III-A to provide grants to Tribal Colleges and Universities to promote the preservation, revitalization, relevancy, and use of Native American languages.

In a final note, President Parrish requested Senator Debbie Stabenow’s assistance in a round table discussion with the Tribal Colleges and President Obama as he had done with other minority serving institutions.

On July 12, 2013, the College was notified of its full accreditation. In order to be accredited, an institution must show that it meets five criteria: presenting a plan for implementing and realizing its mission; conducting its operations ethically and responsibly; providing high quality education; evaluating and improving teaching and learning; and having the resources, planning, and institutional effectiveness to meet future challenges and opportunities. The College has been officially affiliated with the Higher Learning Commission as a candidate for accreditation since 2009. To gain candidacy status, the college had to demonstrate its eligibility in a preliminary application, conduct a two-year self-study, and host a peer review team visit. Candidacy is a required four-year step in the accreditation process, and allowed the College to participate in Federal programs, including Federal Student Aid.

Having accreditation will bring other opportunities to students including funding for additional programs and services, new scholarships such as the TEACH program for teachers in an early childhood setting, and eligibility in other federal programs such as USDA. Dr. Lynn Aho noted that KBOCC can participate in the Michigan Transfer Network and develop articulation agreements with four-year colleges and universities which help students who go on to earn bachelor degrees.

Parrish stated that the former Baraga County Memorial Hospital was purchased for $1.00 in April and is in Phase I of the overall renovation plan. The Wabanung (East) Campus will provide an additional 54,000 square feet of space. To date, nine classrooms have been constructed along with five student services offices. Phase I is expected to be completed by September 30.

The former Carmody building was also renovated and currently serves the community as the OCC Child Care Center. The center opened three weeks ago and is open to the public during regular working hours. Contact Nissa Morningstar at 524-HUGS (4847) for more information.

Phase II of the facility plan will begin in October and will include renovation for a science lab, library, computer center, fitness center, and two additional classrooms. The third phase will include renovation to include a business/entrepreneurial center, CNA program, culinary arts, and additional classrooms. The facility is expected to be completed by late Fall 2014.

In celebration of its accreditation, the College is holding a community gathering on Friday, August 23, 2013, at 1:00 p.m. at the Big Bucks Bingo Hall in Baraga. The public is invited.
physically. I would like to become princess because my grandpa, John Misegan, passed away within the last year, and I would like to honor him by representing our Tribe. I am very active with the Title VII, Native American Education Program at my school. I attend the events the program holds, and I enjoy being a role model for the younger children. I also try to attend as many powwows as I can. If I am honored to represent our Tribe, I hope to be more involved.

Sheena Halverson said, "I am a very proud anishinabeween- woman and 100% involved with my culture. My parents are Paul Halverson and Michelle Ellola. I grew up here on the rez. I pretty much know everyone and am related to many people in this town. I'm your average rez girl. I am doing very well in school and socially. I am a very well behaved, respectable, and traditional native girl. I'm a good listener, and I lend a hand whenever it is needed. I've been active with our culture since I was able to walk; one of my first words was the sema (tobacco) song. In the future, I want to specialize in the Ojibwe Language and culture. I want to learn as much as possible, so one day I can come back to the tribe and help re-store our language and teach the younger generations. One of my biggest fears is to see our culture and way of life die out, and I want to help restore it as much as possible. I also would like to become a cosmetologist, but my main goal is to help our people."

Ashley Beck Neebinawabeegone (Summer Flower) said "I am the daughter Nanette Beck and the late Matthew Jacob Beck. I am currently a sophomore at the Baraga High School and will be soon getting my driver’s license. I am kind and respect-ful to everyone I encounter. I do my very best in everything I do. I make mistakes, and I learn from them and try harder the next time. I am very outgoing; I like to be noticed in a positive way and take pride in myself. I enjoy listening to music of all kinds and like to dance and make my own raps. I used to be really shy and tried not to be noticed. I lived in fear of being made fun of. I was bullied throughout elementary school; I know what it is like and I will never put anybody down, especially for trying. People are people and no two are exactly the same. Everyone is special in their own way. I decided one day when I was in the seventh grade that I was just going to be me and loved who I am. I stopped hiding and been shy and became involved in everything I like doing. I started talking to more people outside of my family and my classes. My family and I are very proud of the positive changes I have made in my life."

Honor Elders Biographies:

Fanchon Picard Boyette was born to Charles and Nora (Demery) Picard in L’Anse. She was raised and attended school here before later, under the U.S. Government Relocation of Native Americans, moved to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where she worked for twenty years in the legal profession and ten years in the medical profession while raising four children as a single parent and keeping strong ties with her home and fami-lies here at Keweenaw Bay. Fanchon is retired but currently does vol-unteer work assisting patients for St. Luke’s Hospital of Mil-waukee. She is still making that road trip at 81 years of age to help those at Keweenaw Bay.

Marilyn “Merta” Abbott was born and raised in Zeba, Michigan, on March 2, 1949. She is the daughter of Daniel and Mary Schofield. Merta has worked in Wisconsin for about five years and then moved to Sault Ste. Marie where she worked for the tribe for five years. He, along with several community members in attendance here today, established the KBIC drum “Carp River Singers”. They prac-ticed and traveled, and the newly formed drum group led to the need to have our own powwow here on the rez. This tradition was established in 1976 and has continued to this day, with only one year of absence. That is why we are cele-brating our 35th annual Mawaanji’iding today. Ted now lives in Kincheloe, Michigan, with his wife Peggy Hemway. To-gether they have three children: Cheyenne, Tacschina, and Eric; and three grandchildren.

Dear Members:
At the Saturday, July 13, 2013 Tribal Council Meeting, Council passed Resolution KB-1862-2013 after recommendation of the Constitutional Committee which replaced KB-1862-2011, to request the Bureau of Indian Affairs to hold a Constitutional amendment election on our Constitution, removing the Secretary of the Interior from our amendment process.

The current process, which is under the Secretary of Interior, is very cumbersome. If major changes are requested, that request has to be sent to the Secretary of the Interior and back again adding months and in the case of a major amendment will not completely remove the Secretary of the Interior from our Constitution, only from the amendment process. It will provide a less cumbersome process for updating our constitution by local Tribal members with the help of our own legal staff. The Secretary still has to approve the amendment once passed by our membership.

Why was the Tribal Council enacted this request at this time? These changes are proactive in nature as Federal courts across this country now use Tribal Constitutions as the law of the land in Indian Country. This is only one reason, as our Constitution is out-of-date and in need of change. We have to modernize our constitution, and in turn, our government structure, so that our Tribe can be able to deal with business ventures and become proactive with creating jobs for our membership. Without some changes in vulnerable areas of our constitution, our Tribe will not be able to deal with business ventures, court action that may be brought against our Tribe.

There may be hesitation to make changes to our constitution, but change is needed, and if done properly, safeguards can be a part of these changes. Each Tribal member will have an essential part in this process, the approval of the changes. Without your approval of the amendment, it cannot be changed.

The membership of this Tribe is the answer in modernizing our constitution, to getting involved in the process, and to providing your opinions to these changes. The Tribal Constitutional Committee meets on the second Thursday of each month. These meetings are open to the members.

Below is the current wording in Article VIII Section 1. This Constitution and By-laws may be amended by a majority vote of the qualified voters of the Community voting at an election called for that purpose by the Secretary of the Interior provided that at least thirty (30) percent of those entitled to vote shall vote in such election, but no amendment shall become effective until it shall have been approved by the Secretary of the Interior. It shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to call an election on any proposed amendment upon presentation of a petition signed by two-thirds of the eligible voters of the Community.

The membership will be asked to vote on whether to change Article VIII to the below:

Section 1. This Constitution and By-laws may be amended at an election called for that purpose by the Tribal Council on a proposed amendment which has been adopted by 2/3 of the members of the Tribal Council. The proposed amendment, with a certification by the President and Secretary of its adoption by the Tribal Council, shall be submitted to the Election Board within 15 days after its adoption, for a vote thereon at the next general election, or at a special election to be called therefore, as directed by the Tribal Council. The Election Board shall call an election on the Referendum in accordance with the provisions of the Election Ordinance, provided that at least thirty (30) percent of those entitled to vote shall vote in such election. The amendment shall become effective only after the amendment is adopted by a majority (51%) vote of the voters voting at such election.

Passion on the Bay, by Glenda Ward

“Has any day that began at 6 a.m. ever been a good day?” This was my thought when I hit the first in a series of snooze alarms before finally crawling out of bed and getting ready to head to campus. Our Tribal Law and Government class was going on a field trip to the Keweenaw Bay Indian Community Natural Resources Division (KBICNRD) in L’Anse, and we were supposed to leave at 8:15 a.m. The vans were late, and as we sat around waiting, I wondered if anyone else was hearing Kenn Pitawanakwad’s voice in their head, saying, “Kina, that’s 8:15 Indian time ‘eh! Shtaa-taa-haal!” Finally with the vans loaded, we headed out for the 75 mile road trip into the wilderness that is the western Upper Peninsula. As the doors opened and we all sprung from our confinement, we were greeted by sunshine over Pequaming Bay, and a group of smiling faces that seemed really happy to see us, including our professor, the Honorable Violet Frisvall Ayres, Associate Judge for the Keweenaw Bay Indian Community (KBIC). Lori Ann Sherman, Director of the Tribal Natural Resources Program, welcomed us and shared some history of the KBIC and the KBNRD, as well as her own connection to the land and the people of the Community.

We were then divided into two groups and assigned our group leader for the day’s events. The division into these groups was based on who wanted subs and who wanted pizza for lunch (Subs! The day was looking better!).

So, what did we come to talk about? I will list them in the order of presentation, because the value of one program over the other is non-existent, without one there would be no need for the others. We started with fish and not the Dr. Seuss kind! We were told about Aquatic Invasive Species, the harvesting and restocking of fish in the bay and in the Great Lakes, and the operation of the hatchery. Moving outside, we were given an overview of the fishery’s field work, and they even showed us some oto-

Passion on the Bay continues:

Iills, for the layman would be the inner bone of a fish (I felt so smart just then); these can be used to track migration and the ages of the fish that are taken in the catch.

While still in the Field Work building, a member of the Tribal Police explained their role in commercial fishing enforcement, and the procedures taken to determine compliance with state laws or violations of state and federal laws by the fisherman. The two, and the other was on management. I was especially impressed by the Tribe's decision not to issue licenses for any possible wolf hunt that may be approved. The morning session of those breakout sessions took us to the Genesis Dome greenhouse, and we got our hands dirty. We repotted plants that will be taken to Sand Point for the Restoration Project and were introduced to a number of native plants.

We were briefed on the Environmental Protection Act (EPA) and its application at the National (NEPA) and Tribal (TEPA) levels, leading us into discussions on air quality standards and water quality standards. These programs are part of our daily lives when we worry about dear sands, oil spills, toxic dumping in the Great Lakes, and other pollution sources that are having detrimental effects on the environment. The day ended with a presentation on the Brownfield’s Program and Tribal efforts in identifying these contaminated and toxic properties, cleaning them up, and reusing them safely.
HELP US REACH OUR GOAL OF $10,000!

The film follows Meda Pounds, a young woman who is half Finnish and half Native American, as she struggles to find love and her own identity in a multi-cultural world.

Meda’s mother died when she was very young and she has been raised entirely by her Finnish family with almost no exposure to Native American culture. That changes when she meets and falls in love with Neil, a young Native American man who lives on a nearby reservation.

Tensions arise when Meda’s white family has trouble adjusting to her newly rediscovered roots and Neil’s traditional Native family rejects Meda as a half-breed and not a member of their tribe.

Will Meda and Neil be brave enough to receive the prejudice shared by these families or will it destroy the young couple? Help us make the project a reality and find out!

Western U.P. Trail Information Available Online

A new set of Western U.P. trail resources has recently been made available online. The website, "Get Around the Western U.P." (www.getaroundwup.org), adds lists, descriptions, and maps of non-motorized and multi-use trails to an existing database of transit information.

The website, developed by the Western Upper Peninsula Planning and Development Region (WUPPDR) and funded primarily by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT), was launched in September 2012 to educate residents in the Western Upper Peninsula about transportation opportunities other than the single-occupancy vehicle. Included are information tables and maps for different public, private, and non-profit transit providers; a tool to search for providers by type and location; and a printable brochure. Also available is a carpool matching application.

The expansion of the website to include county-by-county trail listings, descriptions, and maps demonstrates a commitment to multi-modal transportation and helps to promote some of the greatest resident activities and tourist draws of the Western U.P.
